Treatments

on hair and scalp

• Before Treatment

Untreated hair appears dehydrated with presence of unidentified material deposited between the cuticles with jagged and irregular shapes.

• Steam Application

The use of steam on the hair and scalp determines the opening of the cuticles which at the end of the treatment, closing again, they trap the water molecules, promoting excellent hydration.

Furthermore, the steam treatment improves the morphology hair that appears soft, smooth, light and reflective.

• Steam Application + Product

In pre-steamed hair and subsequently with specific products, the deposition is highlighted and the absorption of the product between the cuticles, which, on the contrary, would be scarcely detectable.
