HOW DO I MEASURE A HORSESHOE?

Width: Measure straight across the widest part of the shoe.

Length: Stand the shoe upright on a flat surface, as shown in the picture. Measure from the flat surface to the outer edge of the toe.

WHICH SIZE SHOULD I CHOOSE?

Horseshoe sizes do not have the same dimensions across different models, even from the same manufacturer. If you are ordering a different model from the one you normally use, measure the shoe currently fitted to your horse, bearing in mind that it may have been shaped to fit. Alternatively, measure a freshly trimmed hoof.

In our online shop, each shoe/model has a size chart. Use this chart to select the correct size based on your measurements.

Please note: The charts for Meister, Concave and Balanssko also have a "No." column showing the number stamped on the shoes. Use the "Size" column when choosing your size.

Measure for jogging boots in the same way as for regular horseshoes. However, remember that the boots need to accommodate hoof growth between trims. If the boots are slightly too roomy, Comfort Pads can be used as insoles. These also provide different levels of cushioning.
